Lions Hold Charter Night

The membership drive in the Lions Club during January was very successful—we have nine new members. However, we are sorry to lose George Garner and Gordon Bosworth.

Last Friday night was the big Charter Night celebration for our fourteenth birthday. There were over one hundred and sixteen Lions and partners and guests out for the banquet and a very special program. The Second Ward Relief Society catered for the banquet.

The Governor of District 37D, Morris Sanford, was the guest speaker and was introduced by Deputy District Governor Leon Harker. Governor Sanford and Irma came all the way from Helena, Mont., to be present for this event.

After supper there was a short intermission allowed the guests a breather for a fine program. Bill Nalder and Karen McLean did a fine job of manouvering the show which included Heber Sheffield of Cardston, Don Petrak's Cowboys, Shirley King's Black-face Boys, "Jake" Hill, Bob McMillan of Warner and Walter Miltson.

Everyone was well-pleased with it all and seemed glad to accept an invitation to come again. President Joe McLean was in charge of proceedings and Rayo Woolf was chairman for the whole party.

Accept The Challenge
Our Annual Leo's Night Out is set for Friday, March 13. This is the big Hot Cake supper and dance. You did it before—Let's do it again!

A lean and hungry Lion has issued a challenge to any Rotarian or Vet to take on a big eating bet. Let's have a sport to take him on.

We'll see you on Friday, March 13.

A Calling Shower was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mae Finch when a number of friends and relatives called to extend their best wishes to Mrs. Ray Christensen, nee Audrey Woolley.

The gifts were accepted and arranged by Mrs. Helen Sabey while Mrs. Bea Ackland presided at the Guest Book. The lovely lunch was served by Marie Matkin, Mrs. Sabey and Mrs. Finch.

Legion Program Goes "Over The Top"

The Canadian servicemen have been doing it for generations on the battlefields of the world but last Wednesday the local Legion sponsored a show that really went "Over The Top".

The top-talent show was a little late getting started due to the heavy roads that made it impossible for one featured act to arrive and others take a little longer to get here. When the show started though it started with a bang and with only minor lulls carried on in fine fashion.

Masters of Ceremonies, Bill Nalder, who wrote most of the dialogue for the program, and Shirley King made their initial appearance on either side of Legion President Ray Atwood and following a welcome by Bill and "O Canada", Ray was asked to say "a few words" after which he was escorted promptly from the stage.

Variety was the theme of the show and from the ridiculous to the sublime was accomplished by the appearance of Dr. Wayne Matkin's Symphonaires of Lethbridge. This twenty-two girl chorus, with Francine Russell at the piano, has been singing together for four years under the able direction of Dr. Matkin and their long association was apparent in their beautiful renditions of "Glorious Forever Our Freedom Giver" and "A Spirit Flower".

Before his group begins any selection Dr. Matkin waits for a few moments while the audience has time to settle down and become almost completely silent, he then gives the signal to the pianist and begins the number. In our opinion the time taken for this courteous gesture toward the singers is far from wasted and should be copied by other directors.

After another hectic appearance by Shirley and Bill a star in the Raymond firmament of talent, Joe McKlean, came front and centre to thrill his audience with "Sgt. Major On Parade" and "Without A Song". Emma Dahl was his accompanist.

Bill and Shirley arrived back on stage with a few props including a telephone and a telephone number, Pine Tree Tree Tree Tree. As buddies of some long-ago escapee they met each other with the effusiveness one generally saves for a long lost brother but this was just a covering for the fact that they were going through each others pockets. Bill asked his partner who the best looking girl in Raymond was and was told quite promptly that Dora King wore the crown. After Shirley had a telephone conversation with some mysterious person who "didn't say" and Bill had helped someone sort strawberries over the phone and cracked a joke about not getting central with one ring the Symphonaires made their second appearance of the evening and beautifully presented "My Johann", "A Song of Sixpence" and "The Lad With The Golden Hair".

Give-away time had then arrived and the job of sorting out the prizes and presenting them was tackled. The pop-up toaster, donated by the Mercantile to the person who guessed the proper number of beans in a bottle, would have gone to Judy Strong, but as the rules were laid out, the winner had to be present so the toaster went to Max Court, who was second closest with a guess of 2063. George Haugen won a grease job etc. from Sugar City Motors for driving the oldest car to the program and Mrs. John Navratil won a beautiful satin cushion from Thompson Furniture for having the largest selection of merchandise in her purse. Vaughn Taylor was presented with a grease gun from Gordon Motors for being the first veteran present to go overseas during the Second War and Ted Wagstaff won a can of oil donated by J. H. MacPhee for being the oldest veteran present. Hartland H. Stevens and Harold McKean were given boxes of chocolates from Stone's for joining up at the same time as Ted. George A. Terry won chocolates donated by the Raymond Coffee Shop for being the oldest man present. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Alfred won some cloth from the Broadway and a subscription to "The Recorder" and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Palmer won a brush set and a subscription for being married longer than anyone else present. Donn Petrak and Doris Helgeson won a Insurance Policy from Raymond Agencies.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Orson Bingham was the scene of a family gathering on Sunday at which time Kuman Smith was guest of honor. Mr. Smith, a former resident here, has just returned from a mission in the Northern States and has received his call to serve in the U. S. Army. Present for the chicken dinner with all the trimmings and the enjoyable time that followed were Kuman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith and family of Carmangay, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jacobs of Stirling and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Jacobs and family.

After the prizes had been distributed Jan and Ethel played "Kiss of Fire" but due to time running out were unable to accept the applause of the crowd for another number. A group of young Japanese boys were featured in a dance depicting the return home of coal miners and some lovely Japanese girls, in colorful costume, performed a native dance.

Bill, a highly professional photographer, and Shirley, a siren in flowing black shirt and high heels, combined talents again in a skit that saw Bill getting his camera covering and Shirley's long skirt mixed up.

Howard Richie, a youthful artist from Lethbridge, astounded and confounded the audience with his feats of magic and sleight of hand which included drawing coins out of the air, making wine bottles change locations and making the glass of water his "storge" from the audience drank return via his elbow. Mr. Richie's pantomimes were the real crowd-pleasers as he presented "I Tot I Saw a Putty Tat", "I Went To Your Wedding" and Jimmy Durante's "Lost Chord".

The Dixie Lands brought the humor and music of the deep south to the far north as they played "In The Evening By The Moonlight" even though Bill said that they were going to sing "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia Mayo". The black-faced aggregation presented "Dry Bones" and "12th Street Rag" before Harry Fairbanks could be persuaded to assume a vertical position long enough to step dance to the tunes "I'll Be Down To Get You In A Taxi", Walter Miltson then played an accordion solo of "I Cried For You" and the whole gang finished off their act with "My Blue Heaven" and "Sleepy Time Girl".

The Symphonaires concluded the program with "Bless The Lord Oh My Soul" and "The Lord's Prayer" after which the audience rose to pay honor to "The Queen".

Atha Peterson made a hurried trip to Salt Lake this week to attend the funeral of a close relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Miller were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Derald Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Dahl motored to Calgary this week for a couple of days on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Galbraith and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kenney motored to Edmonton over the week-end to bring back Dee Kenney who has been a hospital patient there since undergoing an operation on his back the first of the year. He has been admitted in the local hospital where his condition is about the same.

Mrs. Beth Kenney and son Keith of Lethbridge motored out to visit Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kenney for the day this week. Keith, who has been working in California, leaves the end of the week for South America where he is an oil employee.

Ray Depew Heads Electrification Group

It took some persuasion, but Mr. and Mrs. Henry Piegrass finally got the Clarence Bowdens to the Legion Hall Saturday evening when nearly sixty friends and relatives had gathered to honor the Bowdens at a surprise party in honor of their Silver Wedding Anniversary.

The very entertaining program was emceed by Bill Bowden and consisted of a few comic impersonations of local people by George Schneidt and a vocal duet by Marie Matkin and Helen Sabey. A comic reading was given by Ada Orgill and Eldred Hudson gave a history of the Bowdens, this was followed by a piano solo by Mildred Atwood. Deb Oler's saxophone solo preceded Helen Atwood's Reading, which was the concluding number. The Honored Guests were presented with a purse and a lovely bouquet of flowers.

A delightful lunch was served by Evelyn Robinson, Mary Thompson and Dorothy Bowden after which the remainder of the evening was spent dancing; both modern and old time.

His many friends will be glad to learn that Roy Muraki is back to business at the Bake Shop after being closed for two months due to illness. He has his former helpers Eileen and Velma with him and has added another man to his staff. Erwin Oesterle is a baker of long experience in Germany and is now adding a new list of delicacies to the Bake Shop line. Roy extends an invitation to call in and meet him.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jensen entertained the Fawns family at a dinner party recently while Mrs. Uriel Swenson was in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Alfred had as their guests on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Wally Duncombe of Taber.

Just for a change, The Wednesday Night Club met on Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Alice Powelson for and evening of Rook, at which Mesdames Kathleen Ball, June West, Betty Evans and Dawley were special guests. At the close of the evening prizes were presented to Mrs. Thelma Turner for High Score and Mrs. Larry Dahl for Low while Mrs. Ball received the Travelling Prize, after which a delightful lunch was served by the hostesses.

Golden Wedding Celebrated By The C. D. Petersons

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Peterson, pioneers of this district, had the happy opportunity of celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Wednesday, February 25th., with all of their children present; Vern, Linda Poulsen from Magrath, Ethel Radoudou from Calgary, Elnora Sabey from Nanaimo and Gladys Gibb from Edmonton.

An open-house was held at their home here at which time many friends and neighbors called to offer congratulations and enjoy a program that included a comic reading by Mr. Peterson, that told part of the story of their settlement in this country. The program also featured so's by Ira McBride, Ray, Alvin and Denny Bullock with cornet, violin and accordion played several numbers, Malcolm Bridge, Ira McBride and Dean Gibb teamed up to sing as did Margarite Anderson and her two daughters, Mary and Margaret. Ethel Rabidou gave a reading based on the life of her parents, Floyd Wilde sang his famous Chinese songs and Ray Pilling gave two comic readings.

The Peterson home was gayly decorated for the occasion with flowers from Salt Lake, American Fork, Victoria and Lethbridge and a three-tiered wedding cake.

Mr. Peterson was born on December 5th, 1877 in Huntsville, Utah, the son of a merchant. He first came to Canada in 1901 but returned to Utah in 1903 to marry Elnora Gould McBride in the Salt Lake Temple.

They returned to Welling where Mr. Peterson had purchased some land and soon after went to work for the Knight Ranching Co. under the late J. B. Ririe of Magrath, who was then bringing 42,000 head of sheep in from Montana. The following year Mr. Ririe resigned and Mr. Peterson was given his job. In 1903 and '04, because of the snow storm that started on May 16, and ended May 20, and brought 2½ feet of snow, killing about 1,000 head of the older stock and about 90% of the lambs, the Knights sold out of the sheep business and Mr. and Mrs. Peterson returned to their farm.

At the time Mr. Peterson took over the R. C. Harvey Romenette breed, bringing about 400 head of his best ewes when Mr. Harvey moved to B. C. Mr. Peterson has been active on his farm up until recently when he turned the management of it over to Vern. While at Welling Mr. Peterson was Supt. of the Sunday School for ten years and served on the School Board for nine years. At present both Mr. and Mrs. Peterson are members of the Fourth Ward Genealogical Committee.

Mrs. Peterson was born in Eden, Utah, March 20, 1879 and has been active in Church affairs for many years, working in the Primary, Relief Society and Sunday School at Welling.

Not many couples have the opportunity of celebrating fifty years of married life and even fewer men can say that they have been carrying their wife's picture with them since before their marriage but so is the case with Mr. Peterson.

We join with their many friends in extending to Mr. and Mrs. Christian Peterson the most hearty of congratulations with a wish for health and happiness in the years to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Galbraith of Pincher Creek were visitors in town over the week-end at the Galbraiths and Zobells.

Mrs. Hubert (Gladys) Whittaker of Nanaimo, B. C. is the guest of her sister Dorothy Strong while visiting friends and relatives in town, having arrived in town last Wednesday.

Mrs. Whittaker and Mrs. Elnora Sabey travelled together from Nanaimo.

CANADIAN GARDEN SERVICE

By

Gordon Lindsay Smith

Anytime Now— Even if the mercury still sticks too close to the bottom of the thermometer, the sap in the trees is beginning to rise, and the calendar says that spring is just around the corner in most parts of Canada. Very soon now one can turn off the radio or television and start to dream of getting outdoors again with rake or spade.

In the meantime there can be garden plans and a little planning will prove useful as well as pleasant. In this sort of thing a current Canadian seed catalogue will be most useful. Some columnists like to poke a little fun at the seed catalogue, with its bright colors and glowing descriptions and coming out in the dead of winter. But these little books are packed with all sorts of vital information and facts. And as for the pictures they are from actual photographs and with a little care any amateur can do as well or better from his own garden.

More Than Pretty Pictures— But there are more than pretty pictures in a seed catalogue. In flowers there is also word about heights, color, season of blooming, whether the plants are hardy or tender, or require special light or soil. With vegetables one is given the number of days from seedling to maturity, type, hardness, spacing and so on. This is essential information in planning and planting. With such knowledge one can arrange flowers so that the smaller plants will be in front and colors will not clash and so one can get a succession of bloom from early summer on.

This information is needed too, with the vegetables, so that one can select the varieties that are particularly suited to whatever soil and location is available, so that one can get the utmost out of a small plot, and above all a continuous supply of garden fresh vegetables right at the kitchen door.

New Developments— In the 1953 seed catalogues, too, will be listed those latest additions in the garden world. On this continent are a score or more of testing stations, scattered across Canada and the United States. In these the new flowers and vegetables fresh from the plant breeders are tested for regional conditions. The best get special merit marks from a score of judges and the following year they are available from leading seed houses.

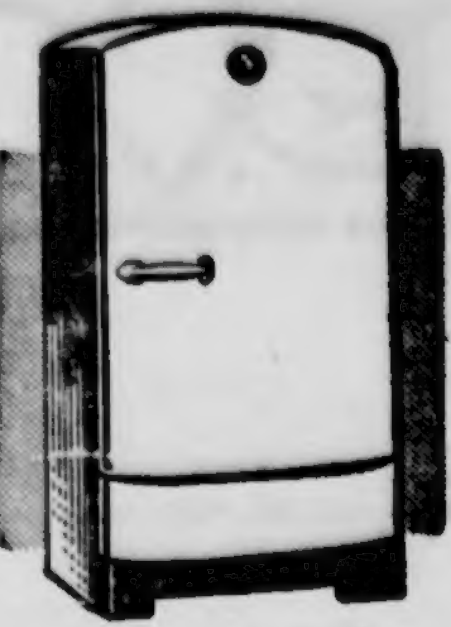

Plant breeders are constantly striving to give us something new and different. This year for instance there is a new dwarf alyssum, which is purple in color and will make an excellent contrast with the normal white. There is also a new and brighter petunia and several other flowers which the amateur will like to try. There are new and better beans, corns and vegetables. The person who wants to get the most out of his garden is advised to add some of these new flowers and vegetables each year. They will add interest and satisfaction.

Bulletins Are Useful— Provincial and Federal Department of Agriculture also publish much literature which will greatly help. Much of this comes in the form of bulletins, usually free for the asking. These bulletins are non technical and are crammed with valuable hints about the special likes and dislikes of flowers, vegetables, shrubbery, trees and vines. There are others that deal fully and simply with special jobs, like the construction of hot beds or cold frames, the purpose and handling of commercial fertilizer, sprays and dusts, and the control of weeds. With all this information so easily available one can soon become an expert.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Heninger, Mrs. Virginia Rolfsen motored to Lethbridge to celebrate Jan's birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Heninger. After a delicious turkey dinner an enjoyable evening was spent chatting.

Luck waits for something to turn up; work turns it up.

Mrs. Sade Kinsey left on Monday Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Palmer of Rose- for California where she will visit a many visited friends and relatives in brother and sister and their families. town this week.

NEW FRIENDS

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

We have grown so used to looking upon Britain and the Commonwealth and the United States as our logical markets that, a many of us, these have appeared to be our only outlets. It is well for us that this is not the case, else with our dramatically expanding industry and the contraction of European, British and Commonwealth demand, we would have come to a sad pass indeed.

We have not suffered, and we have been able to expand our exports by the simple process of finding new friends. To many of us Brazil is a rather unfamiliar country. It shouldn't be, for it is a country of vast importance to us. In many ways it is not unlike Canada. It is of almost similar size. It has vast areas of undeveloped land, as we have, which it is on'y beginning to know and to make productive. It has a wide range of minerals. It has grain, a soft wheat that needs the mixture of our northern hard wheat to give it quality. And Brazil, like Canada, is moving into a new era of tremendous growth and prosperity.

And what is that to us we ask. It is this. Brazil has shown itself friendly. Though a new friend in some respects, it is a very good friend. It needs what we have to sell. It has what we want to buy. The result is that, next to the United States, buying and selling, it is our best customer and provider in this hemisphere.

Brazil is not without some knowledge of us. Many years ago a Canadian enterprise, The Brazilian Company, undertook the development of some of the vast power resources of the province of Sao Paulo. This undertaking, expanding enormously has played a dramatic role in the industrial development of the country, with the result that Canada's name and Canadian skills are already well and favorably known. So, here is a market, well disposed to us, a new country with expanding demands and a population three times our own. What a market for our great new industries. And, happily for us, the interest is mutual, for trade is best where it is a two-way street, and fortunately Brazil has much that we need and is rapidly developing more. It is a happy situation that while many of our friends have lost the power to deal with us as they did in days gone by, a new friend has arisen, able and willing and happy to make good the loss.

YOUR GOVERNMENT

- by donald a. smith

Albertans—city, town village and farm residents alike, will be reaping the benefits this year of the oil revenues which have been pouring into the provincial treasury, if proposals outlined in the speech from the throne last week are approved during the first session of the 12th Alberta legislature.

Traditional pomp and ceremony, missing last year in respect to the passing of King George VI, marked the opening of the Alberta legislature last Thursday as the Social Credit government, supported by 52 members lined up against eight opposition members and R. Eric Ansley (Ind. S. C. Leduc) who is sitting on the opposition side of the legislature chamber.

The opposition is composed of four Liberals, two Progressive Conservatives and two CCFers.

The Throne Speech, read by Hon. J. J. Bowlen, Lieutenant-Governor, forecast government proposals for increased agricultural services, additional financial assistance for rural electrification, aids to homestead settlement and increased aid for hospitals, schools and municipalities.

Although there has been no official announcement, Premier Manning, as treasurer, is expected to introduce the province's biggest budget, containing $160,000,000 to $170,000,000 in expenditures.

The legislature will be asked to approve many proposals, which Social Credit candidates promised during the election campaign last summer. Russell Patrick (SC Lacombe) seconded the Throne Speech reply, termed it "the dream Throne Speech of an election year."

Large, New appropriations for continuing development of the irrigation projects on the St. Mary and Milk Rivers in Southern Alberta, will be requested by the government, while greater financial assistance for electrification co-operatives also is proposed.

Good news for taxpayers is the proposal to increase appropriations for school grants, provide additional aid for new school construction and boost government financial aid to municipalities. Although the government has steadily been increasing municipal aid, its ultimate objective is for all municipal borrowings to come from the provincial treasury at a low rate of interest.

Plans call for spending money on the province's biggest highway program in history, with a four-year program to develop a network of all-weather highways and particular emphasis on improvement of local and market roads in municipalities and improve districts.

Hon. Mr. Bowlen praised the initiative of Alberta farmers who, aided by favorable weather conditions, established new production records for farm crops last year. He pointed out the dark cloud in last year's agricultural picture was hoof and mouth disease which resulted in embargoes, low prices and heavy financial losses to producers.

The session's first act of business was to give reading to a bill, introduced by the Premier, to repeal the obsolete Cities and Towns Emergency Borrowing Powers Act, which has been replaced by other legislation.

The first day ended with the appointment of a special committee of select members for the standing committees. Headed by Michael Ponich (SC Vegreville) the committee includes Hon. Lucien Maynard, attorney-general; Hon. Dr. J. L. Robinson, minister of industries and labor; F. M. Baker (SC Clover Bar); E. M. Hardy (SC Bruce); W. R. Cornish (SC Vermillion); H. B. Macdonald (SC Calgary); Elmer Roper, CCF leader, and J. Harper Prowse, Liberal leader.

On the second day of the session Mr. Baker moved the reply to the Throne Speech and called for action on gas export. He also questioned suggestions that the Liquor Act would be amended to make liquor easier to obtain.

Seconding the reply, Mr. Patrick praised the government's proposal to provide loans for university students saying, "It has been heart-breaking and discouraging to see excellent students have to drop by the wayside without completing their university training."

He also asked that loans be made available to establish young farmers on the land and proposed increasing the size of the guidance staff at the university.

Members applauded as Mr. Patrick commended the work of the former public works minister, Mr. Bruce MacMillan, who retired last year after representing Lacombe constituency for years. A motion of sympathy was passed for James Hartley (SC Macleod), deputy speaker last year, whose wife died Thursday afternoon.

Observers expect the session to last about six weeks, ending just before Easter. It is expected to be a rather quiet session in view of the overpowering numbers on the government side of the chamber, although opposition members can be counted on to get in their licks whenever possible.

Hon. Peter Dawson (SC Little Bow) was elected speaker for his fifth term. He has served in this capacity since 1937, establishing a record for Alberta and possibly for all Canada.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION WEEKLY LETTER MAKING USE OF WEATHER RECORD

P. H. Walker - Irrigation Agronomist

Agriculturists are finding new uses for weather records. Accumulated temperatures and precipitation data for Lethbridge, covering a period of 51 years, are on file at the Lethbridge Experimental Station. Figures for sunshine, wind, and evaporation, for shorter periods supplement this fund of knowledge. In addition, there are temperature and precipitation records for varying periods and from widely scattered points in Southern Alberta.

Information of universal interest, such as extremes of temperature, long periods of sustained cold or heat, length of crop seasons, dates of occurrence of frosts, and facts about two of Southern Alberta's most abundant commodities - the sun and the wind - are all to be found in the record books.

While such information continues to provide interesting material for general conversation, its true value is revealed when studied and applied by research workers to all phases of agriculture production.

In the field of canning crops, temperature data are put to use in planning seeding schedules which must be so arranged that the harvesting of the crop is spread evenly over as long a period as possible.

Cereallists and other plant breeders must know what conditions of temperature and wind exist in an area so that, in breeding and selecting new varieties, they may produce a strain that will fit existing climatic conditions.

Evaporation data are of particular interest to irrigation district officials. In this climate, temperatures and winds combine to evaporate as much as two and one half feet of surface water from a reservoir or lake in one year. Forearmed with such information it is possible to anticipate such water losses and to make allowances for them in estimating water needs of the district.

The practicability of certain types of farm structures and of sprinkler irrigation systems to some extent can be determined by studying records of velocity, intensity, and prevailing direction of the wind.

Even such limited weather information as temperatures and precipitation records can be used in estimating irrigation requirements of crops in outlying districts.

Cloud seeding in order to stimulate precipitation has been a controversial subject during recent years, and research institutions in the Western United States have used longtime rainfall records in assessing the value of such operations.

Data concerning the duration and the energy-producing quality of the sunshine are to be used in studying the possibilities of growing garden and field crops formerly considered not adaptable to the climate of Southern Alberta.

Only a few of the ways in which weather records are already being used have been given here, but there is good reason to believe that many new and important applications will be found for them in the future.

Alberta's Gas Export Policy

In 1938, the Alberta Government set up the Conservation Board to stop the waste of gas in the Turner Valley field. In 1949, the Gas Preservation Act was passed to control gas export and to protect the requirements of Albertans taking into consideration the future population, growth and industrial development.

Present proven reserves are easily sufficient to meet the needs of Alberta for 30 years. As each year goes by the 30-year period moves ahead, and no export permit will be granted unless there always remains a minimum 30-year supply. Only then will surplus gas be exported. Gas in the form it is taken from the ground however, is not the gas that is exported. Before gas goes into a pipeline, any substances economically recoverable, such as sulphur, ethane, propane, butanes and natural gasoline are extracted. These rich raw materials are more valuable than the residue gas, and provide the materials for petro-chemical expansion and can be used for products such as acetylene, alcohols, glycols, glycerine, rubber, carbon disulphide, benzene, detergents, insecticides, explosives, fertilizers and polythene.

Propane, extracted from gas, is a fuel equal in convenience to natural gas, and can be stored in pressure tanks for home use or to supply communities. Consumption of propane in Alberta has increased tremendously in the last few years, to a point where it had to be imported from the United States in 1951. Development of a petro-chemical industry and assuring adequate supplies of propane for thousands of Alberta farm and rural homes which cannot be economically supplied with gas because of transportation and distribution costs, depends upon an export market for residue gas.

For gas to benefit Albertans and others, the resource must be developed to the fullest extent. Your government has adopted a conservative export policy to protect your interests indefinitely.

YOUR GOVERNMENT

- by donald a. smith

Bingo playing and liquor drinking his maiden speech in the legislature, were scene stealers as the Alberta legislature knuckled down to business last week.

The biggo question was resolved for the present at least when Attorney-General Lucien Mayard announced the lifting of the ban on charitable bingos.

What position this puts the legislature in, is not clear. Actually, Canada's Criminal Code classes bingo as an offence, except when sponsored occasionally by charities for prizes under $30 in value. The Attorney-General found difficulty in defining the word "occasionally" in relation to bingo and said, "If you don't know what the law is, it is hard to enforce it". Others called the Code's reference to bingo "outdated".

Before the crackdown last December, bingo winners walked away with cars, refrigerators and washing machines in games sponsored by service and charitable organizations.

The legislative members could see no harm in bingo for charity. By a vote of 51 to four, they passed a resolution asking the federal government to amend the Code to allow bingo, when the major part of proceeds are for charity. The resolution was sponsored by Michael Ponich (SC, Vegreville) and seconded by Mrs. Rose Wilkinson (SC, Calgary).

Immediately the attorney-general announced his department would defer prosecution of bingo playing until the federal government takes action. He did not say what would happen if there is no change made by Ottawa.

Premier Manning said amendments to the Liquor Act would be introduced as soon as possible, but there has been no indication as to what they will be. Meanwhile, members are being deluged with letters from the wets and dries—with dries slightly in the lead.

Several government back-benchers have expressed opposition to more liquor outlets, while the opposition members have shied from direct expression of opinion, preferring to wait until the amendments are known.

J. E. Clark (SC, Stettler), making more outlets and, when he called for more control, he was applauded by William Masson (SC, Wainwright) and J. Percy Page PC, Edmonton). The same sentiments were voiced by Floyd Baker (SC, Clover Bar) and Antonio Aloisio SC, Athabaska).

But to Robert Jorgenson (SC, Pembina) the problem is the public's responsibility, not the government's. "It is not my right to tell any person to drink or not drink; the responsibility lies with the person," he asserted.

The report of the Alberta Liquor Board for the year ended March 31, 1952, was tabled in the house, showing that a lot of people were making their own decisions, for Albertans spent $45,456,603 on alcoholic beverages in the 12 months, giving the liquor board a $14,084,433 gross profit. A little computation shows about $14 spent on hard liquor for every rural resident, young and old, while beer consumption cost about $19 on the same basis.

Early in the week, Liberal Leader J. Harper Prowse lashed out at the government's policy on financial aid to municipalities and rural electrification and criticized its reduction of the bounty on predatory animals, now affected by the rabies outbreak.

He called for a commission to study both provincial-municipal relations and rural electrification, stating on the latter question that the government should advance 100% of the money required by farmers, in interest-free loans.

Later, Municipal Affairs Minister C. E. Gerhart retaliated by saying that 30 municipalities had actually overspent from $2,000 to $120,000 last year, "like drunken sailors." Others, he said, have reserves of up to $330,000. His government's goal: "Nearly tax-free municipalities."

New members of the legislature were beginning to make themselves heard and others were scheduled to speak before the expected appearance of Premier Manning's budget Wednesday or Friday this week.

Notes From Your District Home Economist

MISS LILA ENGBERG

FROZEN PIES:

If you have a home freezer you may be wondering about storage of baked products.

A supply of re-cooked foods stored in the freezer can be a real time-saver to the housewife. Pies for example—can be stored either baked or unbaked. If the pies are to be baked before freezing, use a little extra thickening with the berry or fruit pies. After baking, cool. They may be stored in metal, glass or paper pie dishes, wrapped carefully in moisture-vapour proof wrappings. For protection during storage, cover pie with inverted paper plate or place in box. Storage time - up to four months.

These precooked pies are placed, after removing wrappings, directly in to a preheated oven at 375 degrees F. for about thirty minutes. They are not allowed to thaw at room temperature because the texture and appearance may be similar to day-old pies.

Unbaked pies are prepared in the usual manner but no slits are made in the top crust. To prevent apples or peaches from darkening, a little lemon juice can be used in the filling. Wrap and store as for the baked pies. Storage time - up to two months. To cook the pies remove the wrapping material. Make slits in the top crust and place frozen pie directly in a preheated oven - 425 degrees F for 15 to 20 minutes and then reduced to 375 degrees F. until pie is done.

Double crust fruit and mince pies freeze well but custard and meringue tops are not recommended.

FROZEN SANDWICHES

Have you ever tried freezing sandwiches? These must be tightly wrapped in moisture-proof wrapping and heat sealed or packed in a refrigerator box with a tight lid. Mayonnaise and cooked salad dressings have a tendency to curdle during storage in the home freezer. Lemon juice and thin cream can be used instead, to moisten the sandwich filling.

THAW sandwiches in their original wrappings. A package of two half-sandwiches will thaw in three hours at room temperature. Serve sandwiches immediately after thawing to prevent the filling from spoiling.

Do not refreeze any cooked foods once they are thawed.

IMPORTANT: REMEMBER—

Ready-cooked foods must be wrapped in moisture-vapour proof materials just as carefully as other foods that are frozen. Moisture will evaporate from the foods causing dryness and a loss of flavour and texture. Long storage is not good. Use the food from your freezer while your cooking is still a credit to you - as fresh as the day it was stored.

My work as a District Home Economist is to help the rural housewife with any homemaking problem which will help to make her job more pleasant. Please write, telephone or visit my office in the Court House at Lethbridge with your questions and your suggestions. I have several bulletins free for distribution.
